

Hosting an annual conference for GSA and user participants presenting our view of future technology and our roadmap to the future.

Web site available to all Government Departments and agencies.

Using four approaches, client links current and future technology with GSA and other Federal agencies.

Client users present their current and future requirements to clients' Research and Development Organization for potential inclusion in future products and features.

Users view the operations and engage in discussions regarding processes, best practices, facilities, and applicability to their specific environments.

